

CONTENTS

Introduction	5
1. Democracy, liberalism and economic synergetics	9
1.1. Western democracy, liberalism and the Russian reforms.....	13
1.2. Historical preconditions for the emergence of economic synergetics	24
1.3. Economic synergetics as a new paradigm of development	35
1.3.1. Synergetic potential of market transformation.....	35
1.3.2. General market equilibrium and self-constraints on the reforms.....	39
1.3.3. Alternatives implicit in synergetic transformation.....	51
1.4. Synergetic scheme of economics (SSE).....	58
1.4.1. General description of the SSE	58
1.4.2. Synergetic characteristics of finance-based economy.....	83
1.4.3. Appraisal of the reforms ideology from the standpoint of finance-based economy	93
1.5. Updating of classical liberalism in the light of economic synergetics	100
1.5.1. Parameters of order.....	100
1.5.2. Paradoxes of economic synergetics.....	104
1.5.3. Changing stereotypes	107
2. Unity of liberalism and economic synergetics; a constructive approach	117
2.1. Social and political aspects of the modern market formation	119
2.1.1. New position of the state in economic synergetics.....	119
2.1.2. Troubles of practical synergetics.....	126
2.1.3. Macroeconomic mission of the middle class	128
2.1.4. SSE political challenges and philosophy of freedom	138
2.1.5. Complexity of market as an indicator of economic growth potential ... 142
2.2. Post-modern culture; pro or contra economic synergetics?	150
2.2.1. The problem of sustainability of society	150
2.2.2. Neo-liberal and synergetic types of globalization	153
2.2.3. The "two worlds - two systems" dilemma revisited?	168
2.2.4. Priority of spiritual needs and the problem of poverty.....	175
2.3. The world and Russia in the epoch of post-modernism.....	180
2.3.1. Postmodernism as a cultural context of the evolution of international economic cooperation	180
2.3.2. Limited nature of post-modernism and neo-liberal globalization in creating rational national economy.....	189
2.3.3. The "globalization - localization" dilemma	202
2.3.4. A synergetic point of view on fiscal federalism.....	215
3. Liberal perspectives of economic growth	234
3.1. The budget-centered economy as a special type of economy.....	245
3.1.1. Adaptation of the budget-centered economy to synergetic principles .. 246

3.1.2. Contradictions of the budget-centered economy	249
3.1.3. Keynesian model and the third contradiction of the budget-centered economy	255
3.2. Perspectives of economic growth as seen from the synergetics viewpoint....	265
3.2.1. Kondratiev's long waves theory and the budget-centered economy ...	265
3.2.2. Evolution of the budget-centered economy as a series of successive bifurcations.....	298
3.2.3. Synergetic liberalism.....	319
3.3. Liberalism and synergetic complication of economy	319
3.3.1. Liberal trend of development from the standpoint of economic synergetics.....	329
3.3.2. Synergetic complication of economy	340
3.3.3. Western and Eastern types of liberalism and their convergence	359
3.4. Liberal economic growth and its implementation in Russia.....	372
3.4.1. Market dynamic potential as a phenomenon of economic synergetics	372
3.4.2. The factor and structural approaches to economic growth	386
3.4.3. The new role of the market for liabilities	400
3.4.4. Formation of the liberal actor of economic growth	406
4. Market transformation and economic growth.....	421
4.1. Economic synergetics as a means of market transformation	421
4.2. Emerging market and economic growth in Russia.....	441
4.3. Adaptation of the state to the market	455
4.4. The limits of the state regulation opportunities.....	473
4.5. Difference between a synergetic and a linear growth	482
Conclusion.....	501